Our Policies on Modern Slavery and Human Trafficking

During this financial year we have reviewed our “Modern Slavery and Human Trafficking Policy” aimed at ensuring no modern slavery or human trafficking takes place in any part of the Company’s business or supply chain. The policy reflects the Company’s commitment to implementing and enforcing effective systems and controls aimed at combating slavery and human trafficking. The responsibility of the policy lies with the Board of Directors who will provide adequate resources, training, and investment to ensure slavery and human trafficking is not taking place within the organisation or its supply chain.

Should any instances or indicators of modern slavery be found in our business or supply chains then actions will be discussed at Board Level.

Due Diligence process

We are selective over who our suppliers and customers are, they must share the same values and ethics as Distinction Doors and actively work with our Procurement department to ensure transparency within our supply chain. We are developing our supplier approval processes to ensure we have a robust process for appraising our suppliers, increasing our sustainability remit and ensuring The Procurement Department will be responsible for ensuring that these are being completed throughout the business at every level. The company will not support or deal with any business knowingly involved in slavery or human trafficking. Our normal practice is to visit our overseas suppliers at least once annually.

Measuring Effectiveness

A vendor rating process has been implemented to measure the effectiveness of our suppliers and is carried out based on suppliers importance and their impact on the overall operational performance of our organisation.

Training for Staff

Training and development for all staff who deal with suppliers is an ongoing commitment by the Distinction Doors. In a world where regulatory changes are frequent, risks are ever evolving, and the need to remain effective is of heightened importance, we identify respective training and provide to all applicable staff. Where training is then required for other departments around the business, this is facilitated.
